Meralco cuts power rates for January

Qatar Fund officials eye PHL cooperation in infra, human capital development

Officials of the Qatar Fund for Development (QFFD) have expressed openness in exploring opportunities for development cooperation with the Philippines in the areas of infrastructure and human capital development, according to the Department of Finance (DOF).

The Manila Electric Company (Meralco) announced Wednesday it will reduce power rates at the start of the year.

Power rates for January will settle at PHP9.4523 per kilowatt-hour from PHP9.8623 per kWh, decreasing by PHP0.4100 per kWh.

This would mean a PHP82-reduction in the electricity bill for a household consuming 200 kWh a month.

In a statement, Meralco said generation charge this month declined due to lower costs from its power supply agreements (PSAs) and independent power producers.

Generation charge for January decreased by PHP0.2928 per kWh to PHP4.9039 per kWh from last month's PHP5.1967.

Meralco also cut transmission charges for residential customers by PHP0.0517 per kWh this month due to lower National Grid Corporation of the Philippines' ancillary service charge.

Taxes and other charges are also lower by 0.656 per kWh at the start of 2020.

Meanwhile, distribution, supply, and metering charges have remained stable for 54 months. (PNA)

EDITORIAL: It does not work that way

For the United States president, the social media site Twitter has become a valid channel for feelings, thoughts, and ideas. Following his Twitter posts is like gaining a window into his mind.

Over the weekend, for instance, Mr. Donald Trump tweeted that the US had "targeted 52 Iranian sites (representing the 52 American hostages taken by Iran many years ago), some at a very high level & important to Iran & the Iranian culture, and those targets, and Iran itself, WILL BE HIT VERY FAST AND VERY HARD. The USA wants no more threats!"

Trump was anticipating retaliatory attacks by Iran after he ordered the killing, through a drone strike, of Major General Qassem Soleimani, a ranking military official of the Iranian government, in what the White House claimed this was a pre-emptive strike. The Iranians have since warned of attacks. Afterward, the secretary of state, Mike Pompeo, clarified Trump's words and said whatever would be done in a military engagement with Iran would be within the bounds of the law.

Targeting cultural sites is prohibited by international conventions signed in Geneva and The Hague. In 2017, the United Nations Security Council unanimously adopted Resolution 2347, which deplored the "unlawful destruction of cultural heritage, religious sites and artefacts, and the smuggling of cultural property by terrorist groups during armed conflict, affirming that such attacks might constitute a war crime and must be brought to justice."

But on board Air Force One, after spending the holidays at his Florida resort, Trump was again adamant, telling reporters: "They're allowed to kill our people. They're allowed to torture and maim our people. They're allowed to use roadside bombs and blow up our people. And we're not allowed to touch their cultural sites? It doesn't work that way."

This time, Defense Secretary Mark Esper said that the US will "follow the laws of armed conflict," including those that ruled out targeting cultural sites.

Cultural sites are always sacred ground, and international laws that protect them must be heeded. They preserve a nation's heritage that will tell future generations how they lived. They embody what is traditional and unique about a certain people, given their history, while celebrating the universality of art and beauty. Indeed these should be spared from the ravages of war and other fleeting, foolish decisions made by those who believe their personal glory trumps everything.

Of course, nobody expects the US president to be mindful of international law at this point. After all, he did defy norms by ordering the assassination of an official of another government, and without following the usual chain of decision making as expected of a logical individual. We hope Iran's many cultural treasures—like the treasures of every other place on earth—will transcend the destruction caused by strife, violence, and ego.

ensuring peace within the country and with its neighbors.

He informed the QFFD delegation that the DOF is currently working closely with BARMM officials to help them set up the Bangsamoro regional government and in scouting opportunities to expand development assistance to the region.

"We are encouraging more investments in this region to improve the lives of its people in underserved island communities," the Finance chief said during the meeting held at the DOF office in Manila.

The QFFD is a Qatari public institution in charge of coordinating and implementing external development assistance projects on behalf of the State of Qatar. It aims to help Arab countries and developing economies across the globe implement economic and social development programs through loans, grants and technical assistance.

"I look forward to further working with you in achieving our shared goal of inclusive growth and the development of areas under the BARMM," the Finance Secretary told the QFFD delegation.

Mr. Frangieb expressed deep interest in providing QFFD assistance to development projects in the Philippines, including the BARMM, especially in the areas of education and health care, expanding livelihood opportunities in the region's fisheries sector, and initiatives to bring former rebels to the economic mainstream.

Secretary Dominguez pointed out that the Duterte administration has devoted its efforts to prepare the economy for rapid inclusive growth by, among others, maintaining the highest standards of fiscal discipline, reforming the country's tax system, reducing its debt service load, increasing foreign currency reserves, improving the ease of doing business, liberalizing the economy and embarking on a massive infrastructure modernization program.

"We have the BARMM now, so what does it mean to the ordinary person in the region? I think it's very important that we take this opportunity very quickly to show a real change in people's lives. They have to see that they have water, electricity, their fishing capacity is better, the ability to process their food is better. They have better nutrition, they have better schools," Secretary Dominguez said.

Mr. Frangieb said he will reach out to other Qatari agencies to explore ways of funding other BARMM projects beyond QFFD's mandate's and capabilities.

He also offered Qatar's assistance and expertise on disaster and risk management and response to help the BARMM respond to the needs of earthquake victims in North Cotabato, of which 63 of the province's barangays are part of the Bangsamoro region.

The Qatar Red Crescent Society had earlier partnered with the Philippine National Red Cross in providing humanitarian aid to earthquake and typhoon victims in the country.

"The purpose of this visit for our delegation is to put all the minds together into one place and come up with an intervention development strategy," Mr. Frangieb said during the meeting. "We will be coming back with our work hat, not the thinking hat. We will put our words to action and hopefully we will be reaching out to the various departments we have networked to kind of indicate and insure that the priorities are properly set."

Dr. Eduard Guerra, the BARMM Minister for Finance Budget and Management, welcomed QFFD's offer of assistance, especially in helping transform some 40,000 former combatants in the region to productive individuals and law-abiding citizens.

BARMM Minister for the Interior Government Naguib Sinarimbo said the Bangsamoro government is planning to transform rebel camps into "economic-producing areas."

During the meeting, Finance Undersecretary Mark Dennis Joven said the DOF and BARMM will rely on Qatar's experience in building stable and effective institutions within the Bangsamoro government.

Secretary Dominguez tasked Undersecretary Joven in discussing with the Qatari government the possibility of arranging a framework agreement between the Philippines and Qatar to ensure their seamless bilateral cooperation. (DOF.GOV)

Senator Win Gatchalian has called on telecommunication companies to immediately put in place a mechanism for the implementation of the Mobile Number Portability Act (MNPA) now that telecom giants Smart and Globe, and newcomer Dito Telecommunity announced that they agreed to get US-based Syniverse to provide mobile number portability services.

Gatchalian, principal author of the MNPA, pointed out that mobile number portability should be available within six months from the promulgation of the Implementing Rules and Regulations (IRR), as provided under Section 11 of Republic Act 11202.

The law was signed in February 2019. The IRR was issued on June 11, 2019 and took effect on July 2, 2019.

Globe earlier said in reports that foreign countries which implemented mobile number portability took 27 months or a little over two years to make the shift beginning from the issuance of the IRR.

"Setting mobile number portability for the second half of 2021 is unacceptable. Our consumers need not to wait that long in order for them to be able to have that freedom to avail of the services they want. We are denying the right of every user to choose what is best for them," Gatchalian said.

Gatchalian himself is appalled by Globe's statement saying that during the bicameral conference, the technical working group meeting and even in public hearings, the telcos assured that they will comply with the rules on mobile number portability. In fact, both Globe and Smart have agreed that the provision on mobile number portability be included in the renewal of their franchises during the 17th Congress.

"To allow the telcos to renege on their commitments in fulfilling their legal obligations based on other countries' implementation is tantamount to consenting to another scheme of the duopoly. This will frustrate competition and the Filipino consumer will have no other choice but to put up with their overwhelmingly poor and expensive services", Gatchalian stressed.

The law provides mobile services subscribers with the option of keeping their existing mobile numbers even if they switch networks or mode of subscription services (from prepaid to postpaid, and vice versa). The bill accomplishes this by prohibiting Public Telecommunications Entities (PTEs) from locking-in mobile devices to their respective network, regardless whether the device is sold as a unit or under a service contract.

Mobile services subscribers are not required to pay a fee when they decide to retain their existing mobile number after moving from one mobile service provider to another or changing the type of subscription from postpaid to prepaid or vice versa.

The law also removes the interconnection fees charged to subscribers for calling or texting across different networks, according to the lawmaker.

Currently, mobile services subscribers are charged an additional P0.50 per minute for calls and P0.05 for text messages to different networks. In 2016, these interconnection fees generated a total revenue of P3.2 billion for one telco giant.

"The National Telecommunications Commission (NTC) should ensure that the three mobile service providers will implement the mobile portability in accordance with the intent of the law," Gatchalian reiterated.

Mobile service providers may be penalized with the maximum fine of up to P1 million and revocation of the PTE's operating franchises if they unjustly refuse to provide mobile number portability services on their fifth violation.

The Direct Access to Healthy Lifestyle, Intervention, and Advocacy or more commonly known as D.A.H.L.I.A., is an initiative by the Municipal Government of Carmona, Cavite.

Through this program, the local government aims to promote and encourage its citizens to adapt a healthy lifestyle through regular exercises and balanced diet.

This year, the D.A.H.L.I.A. program shall be celebrating its 14th anniversary with the theme "Bawat isa ay may ngiti sa bayang masigla lagi." As the annual organizer, the Municipal Health Office also imparted that they're expecting 4,000 participants from different sectors who'll join this healthy lifestyle movement. There will also be guests from GMA and Silang, Cavite.

The 14th anniversary of D.A.H.L.I.A. shall take place at the Carmona Town Plaza on January 31, 2019, Friday at 4:00 PM. It will start with street aerobics at Poblacion, followed by the mass aerobics at the plaza. For further inquiries regarding the D.A.H.L.I.A. program, these can be directed to Dr. Homer L. Aguinaldo, the Municipal Health Officer, or Ms. Estelita Q. Cadiente, Health Education and Promotion Officer. They can be reached at (046) 430-3072 or (046) 443-5397.

In a meeting with a visiting delegation from QFFD last year, Secretary Dominguez said areas that would benefit immensely from Qatar's support include the government's capacity-building efforts for BARMM, peace building, the normalization of the peace process, Islamic banking, education, fisheries development, rural infrastructure development, health care, disaster risk reduction and management, and the energy sector.

He said these initiatives will ensure BARMM residents that the creation of the new Bangsamoro government would bring tangible benefits and "real change in their lives."

Secretary

Dominguez told QFFD officials led by his senior advisor, Mr. Samer Frangieb that assistance to the new Bangsamoro government is crucial in ensuring that its transition to a regional government is successful.

The Philippines is also looking forward to further cooperation in the field of sustainable development, and exploring possible areas of investment with the Qatari government, Secretary Dominguez said.

Secretary Dominguez pointed out that the Duterte administration has devoted its efforts to prepare the economy for rapid inclusive growth by, among others, maintaining the highest standards of fiscal discipline, reforming the country's tax system, reducing its debt service load, increasing foreign currency reserves, improving the ease of doing business, liberalizing the economy and embarking on a massive infrastructure modernization program.

These game-changing initiatives form part of the Duterte administration's priority goal of reducing poverty among Filipinos, along with developing a law-abiding citizenry and

The Department of Transportation (DOTr) with the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) Philippines engaged stakeholders from both the public and private sector to promote environmentally sustainable transport vehicles during the Low Carbon Transport forum at Novotel Manila in Araneta Cubao, January 7.

"Pollution from our public transport as major contributor is a clear obstacle towards the goal of making Filipino lives comfortable," DOTr Assistant Secretary Dr. Maria Napalang said in her keynote address.

Dr. Napalang cited that pollution is a silent killer that people are not fully aware on the toxic chemicals that is filling the lungs during their daily commute.

"The transport sector accounts for 38 percent of greenhouse gas emissions," Dr. Napalang added.

Shifting to low carbon means transporting people from one place to another without emitting as much greenhouse gases and pollutants that puts negative effects to the atmosphere.

Together with United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) Philippines, the forum strategically addresses initiatives and key policies in enabling an environment for the commercialization of low carbon urban transport systems in the country. The event underlies a holistic view towards a sustainable low carbon transport with its main goal of reduction of greenhouse gas emissions from transport.

"Emissions have to go down and we can only achieve that if our transport system shift from a fossil fuel based petroleum towards solar and renewable electricity," Climate Change Commission Undersecretary Rachel Herrera said.

In promoting low carbon emission vehicles, four approaches were identified in creating commercialize low carbon transport system.

Approaches including effective enforcement of policies for environment-friendly modes of transport, adopting and implementing low carbon transport programs, increasing private sector participation as well as investment in the commercialization of environment-friendly transport system.

Herrera added that we need to think that transport systems, being the backbone of the economy, has really a huge effect in how we can transform into climate adaptive society.

"We are still in the stage where we promote low carbon urban transport especially electric vehicle and hybrid and the use fuel standards like Euro 4. We are now using innovative and alternatives ways to minimize the emissions but we will continuously strive to completely replace old and highly emitting vehicles in the future," DOTr-UNDP Project Manager Mario Tercero stated in an interview.

With support from key government officials of various national and local governments and cooperation from private sector, low carbon transport practitioners came together to heighten awareness and explore potentials in improving green growth and climate action in the country. (PIA-NCR)

A child's dream

Education is a powerful tool to change the world, said a renowned human rights activist. It can lift a family out of poverty. It can bring development to a community. For 10-year-old Addul Hakeem Pindaliday, education is his way to be of service to his fellow tribesmen in Kidapawan City, Cotabato.

"When I grow up, I want to be a teacher so I can help our tribe have a better future," said the young Addul.

Addul Hakeem Pindaliday is a Grade 4 student at Matadon Elementary School. He is one of the beneficiaries of Zero Dropout Program, a social development initiative of CARD Mutually Reinforcing Institutions (CARD MRI) that provides educational assistance to poor.

Said his mom Samida Pindaliday, she availed of the educational loan due to its low interest rate. The loan helps their family to finance Addul's expenses in school. Samida is a member of CARD for more than four years now.

For Samida and her family, the loan is more than just a financial assistance. It is a step toward reaching their child's dream – a dream not only for himself, but for their community, as well.

"I am proud that even at his young age, my son has thought of the welfare of our tribesmen. And for that, I give him my support all the way," ended Samida.

The local government has purchased two new dumptrucks in a bid to improve its garbage collection efficiency.

The Hino dumptrucks were delivered recently to the city hall.

In a Facebook post, Mayor Gemma Lubigan said the local government is constantly looking for ways to solve residents' concerns.

100 fleets of tricycles set to be officially turned over to hardworking drivers

Doing the ceremonial toast for a brighter future ahead are the Tricycle Operator Driver Association presidents with Global Mobility Service Phils. Inc. President, Tokushi Nakashima GMS' COO Kazumasa Nakashima and the event's sponsors

One social problem in the Philippines is that majority of the tricycle drivers do not have the financial capability to purchase their own tricycle unit or are tied to paying off rent for the tricycle. This is where Global Mobility Service, Inc. (GMS) can help by offering them loan opportunities through IoT technology to address this problem and improve their lives by providing additional service after their tricycle loan.

Last January 7th, in PICC Reception Hall, GMS, Inc. in cooperation with the NCR TODA, hosted its annual graduation ceremony for drivers and operators who have successfully paid off their tricycle loan. The primary objective of the event was to commend the hardworking drivers, together with their families, by officially awarding them certificates of completion of payment, which will enable them to continue to improve their lives through sustainable livelihood.

"GMS aims to improve the living standards of households and multiple generations and create a positive chain to the society", enthuses Tokushi Nakashima, President of GMS, Inc.

In addition to this, all those who have successfully paid off their loans can now avail of the car loan and educational loan for their family members.

Official sponsors of the event were DNP (gold sponsor), Kawasaki Heavy Industry, Trimotors Technology Corporation (silver sponsors), AEON Credit Service Philippines (bronze sponsor) and Mitsubishi Motors Phils. Security Bank, Suy Sing and K Servico Trading (regular sponsors).

Hijos Tours trains locals of Davao in tour guiding

As part of its mission to promote Philippine tourism and culture by empowering women, CARD MRI Hijos Tours organized a two-day tour guide training at Hotel Uno, Davao City.

The training was participated in by seven CARD microfinance clients. It aims to produce tour guides who are passionate to share the identity, heritage, culture, and history of the province to the travelers of the tour company.

They were taught about history, culture, and heritage of Mindanao specifically Davao City to give them the basic foundation of an Hijos tour guide.

CARD MRI Hijos Tours is a community-based travel and tour company that integrates its microfinance clients of CARD in its tour programs to provide them additional source of income.

"It is our creative way of giving additional income generating activities to these clients. We have seen potentials in our clients that need to be properly developed." said Marilyn M. Manila, Hijos Tours president.

The travel and tours company was established on July 11, 2017 under CARD MRI to provide an experience where history and tradition meet empowerment.

She also shared that the tour program also teaches the locals to take pride of their community and create a livelihood from it as the company's suppliers. From food to souvenir items, it all comes from the community.

As of November 2019, Hijos Tours has a total of 2,649 travelers with 12 tour guides on its three tour programs.
